Spotlight Course

Cyber Risk and Insurance

Course overview

Following increased demand for cyber cover, it is no longer just cyber specialists who need to be better equipped to serve customers facing cyber threats.

This Spotlight Course is ideal for those looking to gain a good understanding of cyber risk insurance, including the nature and types of cyber risk that organisations face, how cyber risk insurance features in policy coverage and how it relates to underwriting, claims handling and broking.

Who is the course for?

This course is designed for all insurance and risk professionals looking to build knowledge and understanding of cyber risk and insurance to inform their day-to-day roles, influence wider business activities and to serve customers facing challenging cyber threats.

Market context

The global Cyber insurance market is already over $6bn and projected to grow to over $36bn by 2028*. With that growth has come greater complexity and client confusion.

The FCA's Consumer Duty means consumers should receive communications they can understand, products and services that meet their needs and offer fair value, and receive the customer support they need, when they need it.

With Cyber risk increasingly touching many other insurance products (not just standalone Cyber), a grounding in both standalone Cyber products and how non-affirmative Cyber could affect other products, is important to anyone involved in advising or servicing clients.
