Egis appoints Mark Ward as Chief Executive Officer in Canada

Appointment supports continuity, operational strength and the company's growth ambitions across Canada

Egis has appointed Mark Ward, P.Eng., as Chief Executive Officer of Egis in Canada, effective November 10, 2026. In this role, he will lead the company's Canadian operations and advance its strategy to strengthen client relationships, support business performance and pursue sustainable growth across the country.

Ward joined Egis in Canada in 2021 and most recently served as Chief Operating Officer. His appointment provides leadership continuity as the company enters its next stage of development in the Canadian market.

He brings more than 20 years of experience across engineering, infrastructure, transportation and nuclear energy. During his career, he has held senior executive and operational leadership positions, including President and CEO, with responsibility for strategy, operations, business performance and organizational leadership.

"Mark brings a strong combination of industry experience, operational leadership and a deep understanding of our Canadian business. I am confident that under his leadership, we will continue to strengthen our business in Canada," said Alaa AbuSiam, Chief Executive Officer, Americas Region, Egis.

As CEO, Ward will focus on strong project delivery, operational performance and collaboration across Egis. He will also work with teams across Canada to deepen client relationships and support the company's ambitions for growth.

"I'm honoured to take on the role of CEO of Egis in Canada. We have strong teams, deep technical expertise and trusted relationships with our clients across the country. My focus will be on supporting our people to do their best work, delivering consistently for our clients and strengthening how we work together as we continue to grow." – Mark Ward, CEO Egis in Canada
