Egis Bolsters Healthcare in Gurugram, India with Continued IT Centre Support

Gurugram, India: Egis, a leading international group in consulting, construction engineering, and mobility, has announced the extension of its support to the Civil Surgeon's Office in Gurugram for another year, enhancing the Civil Surgeon's Office capabilities in secure data management, thereby improving the delivery of healthcare services.

Egis first helped to establish an IT Center in India during the COVID-19 pandemic. Building on that foundation, the Group are now expanding the support with additional IT infrastructure to meet the country's growing needs. This initiative aligns with Egis' core values and responsibility toward improving people's lives and driving meaningful change in critical sectors such as healthcare, environmental sustainability, energy conservation, digital transformation, and regional development.

Sandeep Gulati, Managing Director, Egis in India, "We feel extremely humbled and privileged to be in a position to extend our support in setting up the IT center, Civil Surgeon's office, Gurugram. The IT center will be beneficial for the authorities as well as for the patients in keeping record and other critical data related. We at Egis are committed to support all activities needed at this hour of global pandemic. I am sure Egis IT center will be helpful to the authorities in maintaining record and other important information during the pandemic. We are doing other initiatives under our CSR program to support the community wherever possible."

Virendra Yadav, CMO, Civil Hospital, Gurgaon, "I am very pleased that a globally-recognized company like Egis has decided to partner with us in serving the community. I am optimistic about our long-term partnership, which promises to yield substantial community development."

Egis recognizes the emerging challenges within the healthcare sector, intensified by the rise of artificial intelligence and increased cybersecurity threats that can disrupt pharmaceutical supply chains, preventing essential healthcare from reaching the regions that need them most. The Group is dedicated to addressing these multifaceted challenges by advancing innovations and strengthening data management resilience to ensure that vital healthcare services are accessible in India, thereby significantly enhancing the welfare of its citizens.
