Hong Kong SAR and Mainland China We Are Now One Egis

Sunland.AL (International) Co. Ltd., part of Egis Group, will be known as Egis going forward, fully integrating the legacy brand's engineering and management capabilities into the Group's full and customizable services in Asia Pacific.

Sunland.AL (International) Co. Ltd., part of Egis Group per the December 2021 acquisition, will be fully integrated into Egis going forward. This integration means an update to its legal entity name in conformity with the Group's other entities, while all of which will be known as Egis or Egis Group as the only one single go-to-market brand.

This is a critical step that further transforms the market positioning of the acquired legacy practice to become part of a major international player active in the consulting, construction engineering and mobility service sectors. It takes a specialized engineering and management practice into a global and multidisciplinary team that can provide full or customized services to clients along the life cycle of infrastructure capital assets. Along the Group's Strategy to 2026, this enables localized multi-disciplinary and integrated design and consultancy capabilities for Egis, and enhances MEP engineering and project delivery capabilities for our prestigious clients in Hong Kong SAR, Mainland China and beyond.

"It is a new chapter to fully integrate into the Egis family. Now our joint global vision, technology and the expertise will definitely take our legacy to a new height as part of a top tier MEP profession in the region," Andrew Li, who is the founder of the acquired practice and now continues to lead the rebranded team.
