EVENT REPORT

TEN YEAR ANNIVERSARY EDITION, 11-15 OCTOBER 2023

StART art fair celebrated a decade at London's iconic Saatchi Gallery.

Through its innovation and unique outlook StART has firmly established itself in the London art scene as a much anticipated fixture in the annual physical art-fair calendar. While it is important to us to stay authentic and true to our original belief to support emerging artists and galleries and to help local and international art-lovers and collectors discover exciting artists, we always have an eye on the future development of StART and the international art-world.

StART 2023 at Saatchi Gallery this year presented its signature array of exhibiting artists and galleries from around the globe.

Projects this year included the Korean globetrotter Doowon LEE who has been taking the international art-world by storm with his naive and sometimes whimsical signature style. In celebration of the King's Coronation together with the Prince's Foundation School of Traditional Arts (PFSTA) more than 55 former MA students who graduated during the past decade were presented in a large second floor gallery space. A partnership with New Blood Art Gallery presented the StART x New Blood Art Emerging Art Prize a showcase of graduate students from art schools across the United Kingdom that were shortlisted for the prize.

Official Team GB artist Ben Mosely painted eight 100 x 100 cm canvases as a mural during the week of the fair.

In 2023, New Blood Art launched its Emerging Art Prize and partnered with StART to present and co-curate an exhibition of shortlisted artists. The prize marks an exciting new evolution in curatorial technique which invites greater input from tutors, heads of department, colleges and the commercial art fair.

Deferring to the wisdom of those who know artists and their work the best, New Blood Art invited three nominations from each institution.  A Cork artist is challenging the art world to pay £1m (€1.15m) for a portrait of a woman who was previously the inspiration for Lucian Freud's work.

Ian Brennan will gift the proceeds from the painting's sale at the world-famous Saatchi Gallery to writer and muse Sue Tilley who will pose naked for him for the first time since she sat for world-famous figurative artist Lucian Freud, grandson of pioneering neurologist Sigmund Freud, the founder of psychoanalysis.

Falling down an 'Instagram rabbit hole' while he was sick in bed led to Mr Brennan finding Sue Tilley, who features in Freud's famous painting Benefits Supervisor Sleeping, which sold for a record-breaking £17.2m to Roman Abramovich in 2008.

Lisa Lloyd's Paper Fish: A Dance of Elegance and Motion

Among her recent works, "Flux" takes center stage. This captivating piece features a pair of fighting fish, their gracefully swishing fins capturing a mesmerizing dance. Created in collaboration with the printer Barnard & Westwood, these bettas showcase tiny speckles and stripes adorning their scales as their bodies gracefully curve towards each other. Lloyd's artistic repertoire extends beyond "Flux" to include "Ovule," an anatomical masterpiece revealing a gold spine and a blossoming flower within the body of a bird. Her latest "Rise" series introduces avian-like forms with elegantly extended tails.

Catch a glimpse of these enchanting creations on display through October 15 at the StART Art Fair at Saatchi Gallery in London. For deeper insights into Lisa Lloyd's artistic journey, explore her captivating process on Instagram.

CITIZEN FEMME

The Stylish Guide for the Female Traveller

If you need a reason to indulge in the rich history and luxury of King's Road and The Duke of York Square this October then StART Fair has you covered. Taking over all three floors of the iconic West London institution, StART fair returns to the Saatchi Gallery to celebrate a decade of showcasing the very best of global, contemporary art. Exhibition highlights include Korean artist Doowon Lee's graphic-style art infusing urban objects with primitive settings. However, the contemporary art exhibition also includes hints of the past. The "Paint it Black" presentation from The Art Hound showcases rock 'n' roll icons including photographer Scarlet Page – daughter of Jimmy Page, Led Zeppelin's guitarist. Additionally, Ian Brennan's portrait of Sue Tilley (a muse of Berlin-born, twentieth-century figurative artist Lucien Freud) will be on sale for £1 million, in a tongue-in-cheek display after Tilley has been quoted saying she won't be painted nude again for less than this impressive sum.

Paper artist Lisa Lloyd explores the flow of emotions in dazzling new foil block printed sculpture

Brighton-based paper artist Lisa Lloyd pushes her work in new directions with Flux, a fish-themed sculpture created with the help and craftsmanship of printers at Barnard and Westwood. We caught up with her to learn how it was made.

WRITTEN BY: DOM CARTER

9 OCTOBER 2023

Three-dimensional paper artist Lisa Lloyd takes inspiration from the natural world when creating her beautiful paper sculptures. Previously, her work has been featured on the BBC, Countryfile and The Morning Show, while her latest piece, Flux, is set to appear at the upcoming Start Art fair.

Depicting two glittering fish circling one another, Flux is a dazzling piece that impresses thanks to its powerful composition, intricate construction, and innovative foil printing techniques. Designed to represent conflicting emotions, the gold and silver fish started with a visit to the commercial printers Barnard and Westwood.

kel.london How splendid to host the legendary Sir Michael Craig-Martin at Kel London's Private Viewing soirée at Saatchi Gallery, celebrating the 10th Edition of the StART Art Fair. His artistry continues to inspire and captivate. Dangerous, this must be a moment of immense pride! 🥰
